ALBERTA'S NEW BUDGET: FISCALLY RESPONSIBLE OR RUTHLESS AUSTERITY?

Submitted by Susan Morrissey

With the UCP tabling their first budget, there is a lot of talk of what this means. Depending on who you ask, this budget is either an attempt to get Alberta's fiscal house in order or a ruthless act of austerity.

The Edmonton Social Planning Council took a deep dive and produced a factsheet to inform the public on what this latest budget means for the areas of social services and what some of the most vulnerable Albertans living in poverty can expect from our provincial government.

First, the good news.

It is heartening to see the Government of Alberta continue to support investments in affordable public transportation with $9.5 million per year in funding for a low-income transit pass. In 2018, this pass was purchased by over 100,000 Albertans in Edmonton and Calgary, many of whom reported better access to education, jobs, and other opportunities. Staying the course will improve the quality of life for low-income Albertans and enable their further economic and social participation.

For school-age children, a 20 per cent funding increase to the existing school nutrition program is welcome. Research has shown that students enrolled in schools with a universal breakfast program had fewer discipline problems, better attendance, and improved psychosocial well-being. Investing in our children's welfare is simply the right thing to do and strengthens our communities.

Also commendable is the additional funding going toward a mental health and addiction strategy, an opioid response, palliative care, and a new sexual assault hotline. This shows a commitment to support the most vulnerable and we applaud that.

Nevertheless, there are a number of other areas in the budget that are deeply concerning and could threaten to set people back, especially after all the progress that has been made in alleviating poverty over the past few years.

The Alberta Child Benefit and the Alberta Family Employment Tax Credit, two programs designed to support lower- and middle-income working families, have shown themselves to be important tools for poverty reduction. However, they will now be rolled into a single program, the Alberta Child and Family Benefit, starting in July 2020. While benefits for the lowest income families will increase by 15 per cent, the benefit will be phased out more quickly as incomes rise. As a result, $40 million less will be delivered to Alberta families. While it's encouraging to see the lowest incomes receive more supports, it still leaves out many other working families in need and struggling to make ends meet.

We are alarmed to see a 24 per cent reduction in the Rental Assistance Program. These programs help households find affordable rental accommodations by providing rent subsidies in eligible rental projects. According to the 2016 Census, more than 164,000 households in Alberta are living in unsafe, crowded, and unaffordable housing. Approximately 6,000 households in Edmonton alone are currently on the Capital Region Housing rent subsidy program waitlist, many of whom have been waiting for years.

Finally, the de-indexing of Assured Income for the Severely Handicapped (AISH), the Alberta Seniors Benefit, Income Support, and Special Needs Assistance programs from the Consumer Price

Index (CPI) is perhaps cause for the greatest concern. While current levels for these income assistance programs remain the same, the fact that they will not increase with the rising cost of living places many of our most vulnerable citizens with the burden of having to choose between purchasing nutritious food or heating their homes.

Despite additional investments in some key areas, the overall impact of the budget puts many low and modest income Albertans at greater risk. The four-year strategy outlined in the budget fails to account for either inflation or population growth. This means that Albertans will face real and growing cuts to health, education, and social programs. As was pointed out in their Fiscal Plan, households and businesses would pay at least $13.4 billion more in taxes if Alberta had the same tax system as any other province. There is ample room to address this revenue shortfall without sacrificing the vital services on which Albertans rely.

We are hopeful that finding common ground and working towards a prosperous future for all will result in the desired outcomes that benefit all Albertans.

REMEMBRANCE DAY AT WILDWOOD ROYAL CANADIAN LEGION BRANCH 149

Submitted by Charlotte Winters and Ellen Greenwood | Royal Canadian Legion Wildwood Branch 149

Wreaths were laid at the Cenotaph in Wildwood at 10:30 am, followed with a march to the Wildwood

Community Hall by Veterans, Dignitaries, Yellowhead County Fire Department, Legion members and community members. The Remembrance Day Service was held in the hall with many community members in attendance.

Coleen Young, President, Royal Canadian Legion Wildwood Br 149 gave a welcome address.

Past President, Lori Rehn read a very moving story of a soldier's final trip home. Christine Dungey, RCMP, retired, spoke to us of the animals who contributed to the war effort, from the slug to canaries, horses, mules and other animals.

Students from Wildwood School participated with reading the Roll Call of the Dead, Youth Commitment and reciting of 'In Flanders Fields'.

Two of our Speakers, Kim Littlemore, Master Corporal CD (Canadian Decorated), Air Force, Retired, from Grand Prairie and Corporal James Booth from CFB Wainwright, made the trip to help Honour Remembrance Day. Legion Members from Edmonton were also in attendance.

After the laying of wreaths and conclusion of the service, a light lunch was served in the Legion. Thank you to all our speakers, Veterans, Cadets and the Community. We appreciate your support.

Remembrance Day is a day to come together to remember and to honor Veterans who have given so much. There are still conflicts in the world today, where men and women are acting as peace keepers. Some of these missions are armed conflicts. Think of them, and please remember them not only on this day, but every day, and the dangers they face every day.

To all Legion members, and non-members, who volunteered to make this Remembrance Day Service possible, a special Thank You.

SUDOKU OF THE WEEK

Fun By The Numbers

Here's How It Works: Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

ANSWER:

3	5	6	1	2	8	4	7	9
1	8	7	5	9	4	2	6	3
9	4	2	3	7	6	5	1	8
4	7	8	9	6	1	3	5	2
5	6	9	2	4	3	7	8	1
2	1	3	8	5	7	6	9	4
7	9	4	6	1	2	8	3	5
8	2	5	7	3	9	1	4	6

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!
