JOKE of the week

An overweight time traveler goes to ancient Rome and realizes he wore historically incorrect clothes for the trip. Realizing his mistake he visits a toga shop to purchase new clothes. He looks around the shop and realizes they do not have togas big enough to fit him. He goes to the counter and asks the clerk:

Time traveler: Do you have XL togas?
Clerk: Well, yes. But why do you need so many?

BACK TO WORK, COMMENTS AND REFLECTIONS OF THE CHRISTMAS BREAK

Submitted by Shane Getson, MLA for Lac Ste. Anne-Parkland

Firstly, I want to wish you a belated Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. 2020 was a rough ride for all of us, and I have never been so happy to see a year come to a close. I am looking forward to a "Do Over" in 2021, getting through the worst of COVID, getting the economy rolling again, making up for the downturn in business / job losses we had in 2020, and returning to normal. The time off at Christmas did however give me some time to reflect on previous years, and previous Christmas break, or lack thereof.

In my life prior to politics I was leading major project teams, predominantly pipelines, for the last decade. In that industry, we always paid attention to the morale of the team, the hours the folks were working, and their attention to detail so they wouldn't be distracted in an effort to mitigate safety incidents. We all wanted to make sure the people we worked with made it home safe to be with their families, and that they were able to enjoy their well-deserved down time. In my prior life I also found myself hoping for cold weather so that we could have a good chance of driving frost into the right-of-way, so that when the crews returned refreshed from the Christmas Break, they had the best conditions possible to be able to maintain safety and schedule. On the pipeline projects we were always racing the elements, specifically breakup in the spring, and if we missed that, the in-service date could be delayed until the next construction season in some cases.

There were only two instances in the 19 years I've been married that I didn't have a chance to have a Christmas Break at home. In both cases, it was because of project requirements, the commitments people who were part of my team had made to me, or I had made to them, to be able to make the construction schedule.

Early in my marriage my wife gave me a very dirty look when I got up from our Christmas supper with her family to take a phone call, and then a follow up tongue lashing about why I took the call. I explained to her that there was a crew of 15 people up in the "Bush" that didn't have the luxury of being home with their families because they were putting up the camp that was needed for the 200 people who would need beds when they returned from their Christmas break. So, as the Project Manager, if those folks on site needed my help, the least I could do was be there to take that call. I felt they needed to know that they were not alone, and that they had my thanks and respect for the work they were doing for the team. She understood completely.

The second time was on a small looping project down in Drayton Valley, where at the kickoff meeting in September the horizontal directional drilling contractor provided a schedule that was very tight. In fact, so tight that if they had any hiccups they may not be able to recover, and would have to work through Christmas. I brought this to their attention, and they assured me they would make it, and if needed would skip Christmas to complete.

As chance would have it, the rig they were mobilizing to the site was delayed a week, it was a challenging hole, and they indeed were going to miss the schedule. Their superintendent came to me and said it was their intent to work through Christmas to not let me down, and to keep his word that he made back in September. I, in turn, went back to my team of inspectors, and asked who would be willing to work with me through the break.

His specialty is with hardy fruits such as the Haskap and Sour Cherry as well as the 'Under the Sea' Coleus. The university has released 10 new varieties of haskaps and is considered one of the best worldwide breeding programs.

Bob has won the prestigious Stevenson Award.

We will also have Kim Ross of Rossdale Farms with the topic of No-Till Gardens. The benefits of having permanent seed beds along with using mulch, is a greater protection for the structure of the soil, less water needed, the prevention of weeds, and an improved soil quality. Kim is a Master Gardener and is currently working on a Prairie Horticulture Certificate to obtain greater knowledge of fruits, vegetables, and greenhouse growing.

Registration for the event is $20.00 with a deadline for entry on January 20. The meeting starts at 9:00am. Payment by e-transfer. Info Heather 780-785-2171 and you can register at SangudoHortClub@gmail.com with more details at www.ABHortA.ca. The event is hosted by the Sangudo & District Horticultural Club and sponsored by Lac Ste. Anne County.

The Horticultural Club was able to put on a few events in 2020. We thank Marlene Petersen for her talk on a Walk in my Greenhouse (January 20th), the speakers at our Floral Fantasy Gardeners Day (January 25th) Maria Beers and Clara Qualizza, Ashleigh Munro of Kiwi Nurseries for her talk on What's New in 2020 (February 24th), Denise O'Reilly for How to Make Your Own Herbal Teas (September 28th), Jessica Stambulic for her talk on Vermiculture (October 26th), and Shelley Batdorf of Pots 'n' Pansies Greenhouse for hosting the Christmas craft (November 14).

While our 2021 season will look different, we are still planning to share good gardening information. Watch for updates on our Facebook page. New members are always welcome. We wish all of you the best for 2021.

LOCATION SKETCH

OK, so what this fancy language means is that someone has applied to the County to develop a campground and rezone the land from Agricultural 2 (AG2) to Commercial Recreation (CREC), and to adopt a formal plan known as the Dornbusch Area Structure Plan. Before this can happen, a bylaw must be drafted and a public hearing must be held. The ad above lets folks know about when and where the Public Hearing will take place.

STATE OF THE COUNTY SECTION LAUNCHED

State of the County section provides background on key challenges and milestones

The County has launched a new section of its website designed to provide context behind important regional matters and Council decisions. Dubbed State of the County, this new section can be found in the Regional Issues section of the County website, or simply by visiting countycouncil.ca.

"I'm proud to introduce our new forum for providing background and context behind everything that we're doing in the County," stated Lac Ste. Anne County Reeve Joe Blakeman. The good news stories; the bad news stories; the opportunities ahead; all of it. We've heard loud and clear that transparency is a priority for ratepayers. I'm confident this new channel will help in this regard."

Launched in late December, the State of the County section features Reeve Joe Blakeman's year-end address, plus a series of feature videos that unpack current County issues in greater detail, from infrastructure and water/wastewater successes to rural policing and the Province's assessment model review.

The intent is to incrementally grow the State of the County section of with even more interviews and feature video content from County spokespeople and resident experts on agriculture, roadworks, finance and other areas of public interest.

"In our efforts to deliver vital County services, we also have to remain mindful of the dialogue we're having with our ratepayers," continued Reeve Blakeman. "By better explaining what goes into maintaining roads and bridges, or what we're doing to address rural connectivity issues, or how we deal with beaver mitigation, we can foster a greater understanding of the issues and better manage ratepayer expectations."

"I also believe the wins of staff and Council deserve better exposure. We've fought to secure millions of provincial infrastructure dollars; we're putting local contractors back on the tools; we've done some truly amazing things with our water and wastewater. These wins are big, and the ratepayers are the beneficiaries. They need to hear about them."

To explore the new State of the County section, please visit countycouncil.ca.

MUNICIPAL LEADERS LAUNCH COVID-19 MEDIA CAMPAIGN

Bend the Curve campaign emphasizes collective action

In the wake of Alberta's declaration of a State of Public Health Emergency due to COVID-19, County Council is working with the autonomous towns and summer villages within its borders to reinforce the importance of universal public compliance with the heightened provincial restriction.

The joint municipal media campaign reminds community members of the power they possess to bend the curve downward on COVID-19 numbers. It also sends a message of gratitude to locals who already support the greater social good by heeding public health restrictions.

Awareness of this messaging is being supported via the websites and social media channels of Lac Ste. Anne County and participating municipalities including Mayerthorpe, Onoway and Alberta Beach. A digital ad campaign has also been launched in an effort to reach every household in the region for the duration of the Public Health Emergency.

To learn more about this initiative, please visit bendthecurve.ca.

Jorgensen picked up his winning ticket a few days before the draw at the Petro Canada at 16951 109th Avenue in Edmonton. When he discovered his ticket and took it in to a local store to use their ticket checker, he wasn't sure what he was seeing at first - literally.

"The first time I thought it was $1,000, because I didn't have my glasses," he laughed while claiming his prize. "Then I thought it was $10,000. Then $100,000 - then finally I went to cashier and asked her to check it."

The cashier confirmed he was about to be $1 million richer.

"At that point, honestly, I got a little emotional," Jorgensen recalled. He says he went home, took his dog for a walk, and then immediately put his ticket in a safety deposit box until he could claim his prize.

Now that he has his prize in hand, Jorgensen says he's still determining what to do with it.

"I have pretty simple tastes - there's no sports car in my future," he laughed.

Back to Work, Comments and Reflections of the Christmas Break

I wouldn't expect anyone else to work through Christmas if I wouldn't do that myself, leading by example, the way I was mentored.

I advised the landowners who would be impacted, including one straight shooting farm lady where our exit pit was located in her barn yard. She was a take no guff kind of person, and was none too happy about us working through Christmas. I assured her we would do our best not to disturb their day, and apologized again for the inconvenience. She asked if I was going to be there too, how many people were working, and if we were at least going to shut down at the lunch hour. I let her know that I'd be there, and wouldn't ask my guys to miss Christmas if I wasn't willing to do so, that we would take an hour-long break for lunch and the number of folks we had working. Christmas day, that farm lady brought out a turkey to the drilling rig, complete with most of the fixings, saying no one would go without a Christmas dinner if she had anything to do with it. It takes a team to build a project, it is not without effort, or giving up the things that we hold important at times to make it happen. Those efforts can be recognized by folks that we would least expect sometimes.

When I campaigned, I let folks know that if they hired me for the job as their MLA, I would treat this job like a project. I'd be willing to give them 6 days a week, but I get Sundays off to myself to spend time with my family. A typical 6 & 1 shift, and for most of the time it works out. What does not stop is the phone calls, social media and e-mails.

The promise I made to my family is that Christmas, I spend with them. The vast majority of the people who hired me for this job respect that, and I was fortunate enough this year to take off the 24th of December until the 4th of January. This year I didn't have to worry about the safety of the crews in the field, nor the warm weather messing up the frost packing of muskeg, or logging that needed to take place. As such, I went into "Dark Mode" stepped away from the computer, and turned off the phones. I spent time with my family at home, worked on getting an old pickup running for my son, calling friends and relatives on the phone, enjoying a few fire pits, went on a flight to the mountains, and even a little axe throwing with my son and youngest daughter.

For those that have been asking for me to respond to the personal choices that some of my colleagues made in regards to how and where they spent the time they had over Christmas I can only say that I made different choices than they did. They are responsible for their actions to their constituents, to their team members as a whole, and to the Premier. The short term consequences for their choices have now come to pass.

I would be a hypocrite if I said that I have not made decisions in my life that I did not regret. Nor would I be naive enough to say that in the future I will not make a decision that I could come to regret. I do however, through experience and leaning on others for counsel from time to time, take the time to weigh the options to minimize the potential impact of less than desirable decisions.

I can only speak for myself, but am highly confident that as a team we will double our efforts to get us through COVID. We will focus on creating an environment where our economy will grow, and foster an environment where the many jobs that have been lost will be regained. I fully recognize that the recent events have eroded some of the confidence and trust of my constituents, not only with the people involved directly, but with the team as a whole.

All I can do is my best to keep the commitments I made, and through my actions regain what has been lost by continuing to keep my word, and showing results for the work effort that is being made. I need to make sure that the voters who put me here continue to feel that they made the right decision in the last election by choosing me to represent their interests. In short, as a team we need be humble enough to learn from the mistakes made and to ensure they never happen again, dust ourselves off, get back to work on fixing the problems at hand. Albertans deserve no less, 2021 is the turnaround year for our province.

Yours Truly,
Shane Getson

SUDOKU

of the week

Here's How It Works: Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!
