WET WEATHER DRIVING TIPS

Driving in the rain can be more hazardous than driving in the snow, particularly because drivers fail to realize the dangers wet roads can impose. After averaging 10 years of statistics, the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration found that 46 percent of weather-related crashes happened during rainfall, but just 17 percent occurred while it was snowing or sleeting.

Drivers often think rain is no big deal, but while it's not necessary to avoid driving when the raindrops begin to fall, exercising caution when the roads are wet can decrease the risk of being in an auto accident.

- Slow down. Wet roadways cause tires to lose traction, as friction is reduced between the rubber and the asphalt. It's possible to lose up to one-third of traction in the rain. To compensate, slow down to reduce sliding and stopping distances.

- Improve visibility. Turn on windshield wipers and lights when it is raining. This makes it easier to see the road and makes your vehicle more visible to other motorists.

- Leave more distance between cars. In addition to improving your reaction time, giving others more space can improve visibility by reducing the amount of mist or splashing caused by other vehicles.

- Stick to daytime driving. If possible, when it is raining, drive only during the day. Glare from wet roadways and headlights at night can further compromise poor visibility.

- Watch for wind gusts. Anticipate gusts when traveling through windy road corridors or over bridges.

ARTICLE FROM MLA SMITH

Submitted by Mark Smith, MLA for Drayton Valley

The public inquiry into anti-Alberta energy campaigns confirms that hundreds of millions of foreign dollars were used to block our province's oil and gas development, directly impacting the lives and livelihoods of Albertans.

The Allan Inquiry report clearly shows that there were sophisticated, well-financed and coordinated campaigns that targeted our oil and gas sector in an attempt to frustrate or delay development.

The organizations behind these campaigns and their funders have intentionally hurt our province's oil and gas sector, and Albertans whose livelihoods depend on its continued success. As the owners of the resources, Albertans deserve to know what happened and we have a right to be upset.

Between 2003 and 2019, total foreign funding of Canadian-based environmental initiatives was $1.28 billion, a figure the commissioner estimates is likely significantly understated. He also found that proponents for these campaigns celebrated cancelled and vetoed projects and have taken credit for more than 1,000 divestments made by finance and insurance companies. Furthermore, we can directly tie $54 million that entered Alberta for the sole purpose of opposing oil sands development – and, as the commissioner says, it's likely the actual figure is much higher.

While these interrupters celebrated and boasted their success as pipelines were blocked and projects were abandoned, real people were hurt. Albertans lost jobs, businesses went under and families were hurt. Government revenues from royalties were also impacted. We lost billions of dollars in royalties and we saw pipeline bottlenecks that led to heavy price discounts and curtailment. While foreign jurisdictions were able to build infrastructure and ramp-up production, our projects have been deliberately blocked.

We are in a global energy crisis right now, where supply has lagged demand. Imagine where we could have been if we had market access to Asia and Europe? Imagine where we could have been if Northern Gateway was built? Energy East? Keystone XL? Instead, jurisdictions like Saudi Arabia and Russia have been given a strategic advantage. The illusion that these activities have reduced greenhouse gas emissions is false. Their activities have resulted in a simple transfer of wealth, with zero impact on emissions. Every molecule left in the ground here has been taken out of the ground by others with lower environmental standards and regulations.

Alberta has a proud history of displaying balance by being a world leader in responsible resource development. We have invested billions in viable technologies that reduce or eliminate emissions like carbon capture and storage. And we have a strong regulatory framework that balances both the environment and the economy.

We can learn from the tactics of the foreign-funded campaigns. Those campaigns will no doubt set their sights on other emerging areas in the energy sector, whether that's hydrogen, critical and rare earth minerals or Liquefied Natural Gas. We need to ensure they do not target and frustrate the development of the energy resources of the future – the things that are needed to reduce emissions and set Alberta up to diversify and be competitive in a world that is moving towards lower carbon emissions.

Alberta's government remains committed to responsible energy development, which involves adhering to strict environmental standards while also pursuing important economic opportunities.

We now carry Manuli! They are a European manufacturer and they engineer it all in Europe. All of their product is produced in their own factory, no outsource. Adding this in we have been able to gain access to many of the European fittings that have become much more common in North America.

BSPP, Metric Din, Metic cone, JIS.

These fittings are clear across all brands John Deere, Case, New Holland, JCB, Fendt, Massey Ferguson. Many of the implements that have been sold in the last few years have also used these predominantly European fittings.
