ELECTRICITY REBATES TO START ARRIVING ON JULY BILLS

Submitted by Government of Alberta

Beginning in July, almost two million Albertans will receive rebates on their electricity bills to help them manage high electricity costs.

More than 1.9 million homes, farms and small businesses will receive monthly credits of $50 on their July, August and September electricity bills, for a total of $150 in rebates.

The Alberta government's $300-million rebate program will help alleviate some of the high utility costs that many families and businesses have faced during recent months.

"We are providing targeted support to help hard-working Albertans deal with the rising cost of living. These rebates, combined with the fuel tax exemption and upcoming natural gas rebate, will help the large majority of Alberta households pay their bills while we make the long-term changes needed to make energy more affordable in the years ahead."

Dale Nally, Associate Minister of Natural Gas and Electricity

Electricity rebate
Alberta's government has worked closely with electricity distributors and retailers to develop and implement the electricity rebate.

Albertans currently connected to the system that have consumed electricity within the past calendar year, up to a maximum of 250 megawatt hours per year, are automatically eligible for the rebates. Support will reach more than 1.9 million Albertans, which means that most farms, residences and small businesses will receive the rebates.

Eligible Albertans can expect to see an automatic $50 rebate on their bills. It is being applied directly to eligible utility bills, meaning no application or other action is needed to start receiving the rebate in July.

Unlike the previous government's electricity rate cap, the $50 rebates will apply to the entire bill, not just the energy portion. In addition, the $50 rebates will be on all eligible bills – protecting consumers on the variable regulated rate option as well as those on competitive contracts.

Consumers wishing to protect themselves from price volatility may enter into a competitive fixed-rate contract and still be eligible for the $50 rebates. Albertans can visit the Utility Consumer Advocate to see what products are available in their area.

The rebate will be listed on each bill as a line item titled "GOA Utility Commodity Rebate," and $50 rebates will follow in August and September, for a total of $150. Exact timing will vary depending on the billing cycle of one's utility provider.

Consumers who believe they meet the eligibility criteria but have not received the rebates by the end of July should contact the Utility Consumer Advocate.

Upcoming natural gas rebate Alberta's government is implementing two programs to ensure utilities remain affordable while providing stability for millions of Albertans through the next nine months.

Along with the electricity rebate, a natural gas rebate will provide cost certainty and protect eligible Alberta customers from European-style price spikes starting in October. More details on the natural gas rebate will be announced soon.

With the electricity rebate reaching bills in July, August and September, and the natural gas rebate starting in October, Alberta's government will be providing support on utility bills for millions of Albertans until March 31, 2023 if prices remain high.

STATEMENT FROM HEALTH CANADA ON DECOMMISSIONING COVID ALERT

Submitted by Government of Canada

Following a thorough review of COVID Alert, the Government of Canada has decommissioned the application effective today, June 17, 2022. The exposure notification service is disabled and users can delete the app from their devices.

The Government of Canada launched the national exposure notification application on July 31, 2020 – a critical point in the COVID-19 pandemic when cases were on the rise in Canada and around the world. Along with the public health measures in place at the time, COVID Alert provided an additional tool to help limit the spread of the virus.

More than 6.9 million people living in Canada successfully downloaded the app and did their part to help prevent the spread of COVID-19. And over 57,000 users who tested positive for COVID-19 notified others of a possible exposure.

While the pandemic is not over, the decision to decommission COVID Alert comes after careful consideration following discussions with provinces and territories on the ongoing evolution of public health programming that varies in each jurisdiction.

Furthermore, over the last few months, with less PCR testing across Canada, fewer one-time keys (OTK) were being issued and therefore fewer notifications of potential exposures were sent to users resulting in lower app usage.

The public health situation in Canada has improved. Case counts have fallen, and hospitalization and deaths are decreasing across the country. Following a successful vaccination campaign, 32 million (or nearly 90 per cent) of people living in Canada over the age of 12 have been vaccinated against COVID-19 with two doses. Canada also has one of the highest rates of vaccination in the world. We are now better equipped to manage the COVID-19 pandemic and reduce pressure on the health care system.

Vaccination continues to be one of the most effective tools to protect ourselves, those around us, our health care system and our economy. Everyone in Canada is encouraged to keep up to date with recommended COVID-19 vaccines, including booster doses. The Government of Canada will continue to work with provinces and territories to help even more people living in Canada get the shots for which they are eligible.

We encourage everyone to stay aware of COVID-19 activity in their local area, stay up to date with COVID-19 vaccinations, including getting booster doses, and continue to take personal precautions including staying home if sick, improving ventilation and continuing to wear masks when with people in shared indoor or crowded spaces.

MLA SMITH ARTICLE

Submitted by MLA Smith

Alberta's farmers and ranchers produce some of the highest quality food products in the world. So why is Ottawa now trying to put warning labels on the ground meat Canadians buy at the grocery store, including beef and pork from Alberta?

This is a question a lot of Canadians are asking right now. Ground beef and pork, especially from Alberta, is healthy and affordable for families across Canada and the world. Labelling ground meat not only sends a negative message about the quality of our food, but it hurts our industry and our overall economy at a very precarious time.

This attack on ground meat is groundless. Ottawa did not consult with the provinces and it has provided no compelling evidence for its decision, which unfairly harms Alberta's world-class producers. As you may know, Alberta livestock producer associations have requested an exemption from the proposed federal labelling requirements for ground meat, like exemptions being offered for other nutritious, single-ingredient foods such as milk, eggs, vegetables, and other meats. Our Alberta government supports this exemption.

"The federal government made this decision without consulting the provinces even though we have equivalent expertise in food science and nutrition," said Alberta Health Minister Jason Copping.

The Alberta government is currently working closely with the Alberta Beef Producers, the Alberta Cattle Feeders Association, and Alberta Pork to support their industries. We have also expressed our concerns to our federal counterparts in Ottawa.

This decision is especially troubling because it comes at a time when food prices are soaring due to inflation and other factors. Ground beef and pork are whole foods, rich in nutrients and still relatively affordable. At a time when the Alberta government is working tirelessly to make life more affordable for families, the Trudeau-NDP alliance in Ottawa is working to making life more expensive and difficult.

"While we can all support the federal Healthy Eating Strategy in principle, Ottawa's scientifically baseless labelling proposal for ground meat will unfairly impact families struggling with the high cost of living and add an extra burden to producers struggling to get back on their feet," said Alberta Agriculture Minister Nate Horner.

This decision should be reversed, full stop, and the Alberta government will be fighting for that. Every Canadian should take pride in the fact that Alberta's livestock producers drive economic growth by feeding the world with high-quality meat. Imposing these warning labels sends a negative message to customers and makes our producers less competitive in the global economy.

The entire Alberta government is proud of and stands with Alberta's livestock producers. We will continue fighting this unfair attack on our producers and our world-class Canadian agriculture products. I look forward to providing you with an update on this soon.

of the week

Here's How It Works: Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!
