EVANSBURG ELECTS NEW GROUCH

Submitted by Tipple Park Museum

The results of the 2024 Evansburg Grouch election are in! Kathleen Greenwood is the winner of this year's competition for grouchiest citizen, beating out competitor Hayden Jones. The results were announced on Saturday, July 13th at the Pembina Valley Daze Pancake Breakfast. While accepting her new title, Kathleen shared a poem she had written about Evansburg, the Grouch, and the meaning of this unique tradition to the community.

The Grouch Committee would like to thank both candidates for participating in this year's race. We would also like to thank everyone who voted, as well as all the businesses that hosted the voting boxes. Funds raised from the votes will be used for Grouch-related purposes, such as costume upkeep and events.

If you would like to invite the Grouch to your community event, please contact the Tipple Park Museum and we will help you make arrangements.

TRUDEAU GOVERNMENT'S DISHONEST NATO & MILITARY SPENDING PLANS

Submitted by MP Gerald Soroka

Justin Trudeau was the laughingstock at the 2024 NATO Summit for promoting his weak defence policies on the world stage. While announcing an official statement to an empty room in Washington, D.C., Trudeau said that Canada will reach the minimum 2-percent NATO defence spending target by 2032 presently at 1.37 percent.

This will certainly be another failed promise as he has not presented any plan to reach that objective. If the Trudeau Liberals were serious about this commitment, they would have disclosed new investments and funding plans in their 'Defence Policy Update' three months ago.

The real issue behind the lack of defence spending is that the Trudeau Liberals do not care about our military. Since Trudeau rose to power, our Canadian Armed Forces have been underfunded and ignored by this government. Recruitment is falling behind with the military being almost 16,000 members short, procurement of proper resources is absent, and our serving troops are neglected at home and abroad. The Liberal government recently cut $1 billion in the defence budget for operational funding after eight years of providing $10 billion dollars with no progress to show for our military.

Like millions of Canadians, our service members are also struggling in this affordability crisis caused by this Liberal government. They have been sent overseas and forced to pay for their own meals and buy their own equipment. Our forces are short over 6,700 housing units, and military families are using food banks to get by. Even some serving members are homeless or at risk of becoming homeless.

The Trudeau government is recklessly spending on every matter except for properly funding our military. Due to his lack of leadership, the Canadian Armed Forces' worldwide reputation has

JOKE of the week

A ghost had been staying in a bed and breakfast hotel and when he came down for dinner he asked the waitress,

"Please can I have two eggs, one tough and one rubbery, really tough bacon and burned, fried bread?"

The waitress said, "Sir, we really can't serve that kind of horrid food here."

The ghost replied, "Well, you did yesterday!"

decayed just like the outdated equipment that our troops still use to serve our country at home and abroad.

Only a Common-Sense Conservative government will restore our military to its former glory and effectively support our troops in their fundamental respon-

We honour our Canadian

MILLIONS OF REASONS TO SEARCH LOST-MONEY DATABASE

Submitted by Government of Alberta

Alberta's government is seeking the rightful owners of a combined $154 million in unclaimed money and property.

Alberta's unclaimed property registry holds money that is lost, abandoned or forgotten. The registry currently contains millions in cash, cheques, money orders and other unclaimed items belonging to people who may be entitled to an unexpected payout.

Alberta's unclaimed property registry returned $1.4 million to 650 people in 2023 alone. Almost 350,000 individual items remain unclaimed in the registry, including one valued at more than $850,000. If claimed, it will be the largest single balance the province has ever paid out, surpassing the current record of $368,124, which was returned to its rightful owner in 2019.

"Who doesn't like free money? Alberta's unclaimed property registry is free and easy to check, and a quick search of the registry could help reunite someone with money that they may not even know they were entitled to."

Nate Horner, President of

Treasury Board and Minister of Finance

Since its inception in 2008, Alberta's unclaimed property registry has returned $13.8 million to more than 8,500 owners. Sources of the unclaimed funds include unclaimed deposits, uncashed wages, loan overpayments and unclaimed funds from inactive investment accounts.

Alberta's unclaimed property program is governed and managed by the province through the Unclaimed Personal Property and Vested Property Act. The act provides 10 years for owners to stake and reclaim their lost money, after which the money is transferred to the government's general revenue fund to help pay for programs and services for Albertans.

Individuals can search Alberta's unclaimed property registry on the MissingMoney website, a portal used by Alberta and other

North American jurisdictions that allows searches across multiple jurisdictions.

MORE BOOTS ON THE GROUND TO FIGHT RURAL CRIME

Submitted by Government of Alberta

New surveillance teams led by the Alberta Sheriffs are now on the ground and working alongside local police to make rural communities in Alberta safer.

Rural crime continues to be a top concern among residents and businesses in rural Alberta, which is why Alberta's government remains committed to addressing it through enhanced surveillance and other crime reduction initiatives. Alberta's government invested $4.3 million for the Alberta Sheriffs to put more boots on the ground. This investment supported the establishment of two plainclothes teams – one in northern Alberta and one in southern Alberta – to support police in carrying out surveillance on criminal targets in rural areas.

Both teams are now fully staffed and operational, ready to fight crime in rural areas across Alberta. These rural surveillance teams will work to prevent crime, monitor agricultural theft and work in collaboration with local law enforcement to share intelligence and resources to keep Albertans and their property safe and secure.

"Criminals and organized crime are not welcome in Alberta. Full stop. The addition of two new surveillance teams will further support our law enforcement partners in stamping out criminal activity in Alberta's rural areas. This is about supporting local investigations to address local crime in our smaller communities. Together, both teams will form another key component of Alberta's efforts to combat crime and ensure Albertans feel safe at home and in their communities, regardless of where they live."

Mike Ellis, Minister of Public Safety and Emergency Services

The Alberta Sheriffs have an existing surveillance unit that is part of the Alberta Law Enforcement Response Teams (ALERT) and focused mainly on serious and organized crime investigations. The new surveillance teams will fill a gap by helping rural RCMP detachments with local investigations.

"Through their specialized knowledge, training and experience, Alberta's new surveillance teams are providing another important mechanism in the fight against crime in Alberta's rural communities. Working in close collaboration with the RCMP and other policing agencies, their efforts will play a key role in gathering evidence and information that will help disrupt crime throughout the province."

Mike Letourneau, superintendent, Alberta Sheriffs

"This announcement by the Alberta government and Minister Ellis is a positive step forward for the residents of Alberta, especially in rural areas. Targeting known criminals is a very effective way to reduce the level of crime taking place and will greatly assist the RCMP who have a vast area to police."

Lance Colby, mayor, Town of Carstairs

"We are happy to hear about increased resources being allocated to assist our communities. Addressing rural crime is one of the top priorities of the Alberta RCMP, and our partners at the Alberta Sheriffs already play a vital role in keeping Albertans safe. The creation of these new surveillance teams will help augment our ongoing crime reduction strategies in Alberta communities, and we look forward to working with them going forward."

Trevor Daroux, assistant commissioner, criminal operations officer, Alberta RCMP

The new surveillance teams are part of a suite of measures to expand the role of the Alberta Sheriffs and make Alberta communities safer. Other actions include the expansion of the Safer Communities and Neighbourhoods (SCAN) unit – which uses legal sanctions and court orders to target problem properties where illegal activities are taking place – and the expansion of the RAPID Response initiative with funding for the Sheriff Highway Patrol to train and equip members to assist the RCMP with emergencies and high-priority calls.

FORTRESS NORTH AMERICA

Submitted by MLA Shane Getson

The first time I heard this I believe was back in 2010 from a retired USA Airforce Colonel when he was discussing how the military regarded Alberta when it came to energy security. I've taken that concept, expanded upon it as the way to present the concept of Economic Corridors not only to folks who call the Great White North home, but to our friends, family, and neighbors in the land of the free. Given the current global state of affairs, we have gone from a just in time delivery model, to more of a just in case model. Further, the discussion on resilience, adaptability and "Radical Collaboration" has never been more relevant. In simple terms, build things that last, work together like there is a real need to do so, and make sure we use the stuff we have at hand rather than being dependent on others for our survival. Rural logic, applied in large scale.

With my role as the "Parliamentary Secretary for Economic Corridor Development", I am the Premier's Parliamentary Secretary. Along with being the Premier, she is also the Minister of "inter-governmental affairs", so I have an opportunity as it were to assist in that role, and she has given me a ton of rope to work with. Additionally, I've been assigned to a number of US / Canadian organizations. Organizations I would suggest that we have not fully taken advantage of in the past and have not had the representation by MLAs that we should have. We are changing that.

As a member of the "Energy Council" Alberta and Saskatchewan are the only Canadian Members, the rest are the energy producing states. I was appointed early this year and attended my first meeting in North Dakota this June. I can tell you full well, we have friends, allies, and "Radical Collaborators"(Red Tape Cutters, CAN-adians and Ameri-CANs) south of the border that not only want to be extremely environmentally conscientious but want to ensure that we don't lose our competitive advantage when it comes to energy. We also discussed the issues of how we allowed foreign nations to surpass us in the rare earth elements and critical minerals space. It wasn't because they outsmarted us, we let them get past us due to our own policies. The folks there were very happy to see Alberta at the table, engaging fully, and in a very meaningful way!

We had had several small US legislators visit us in May of this year, groups from the Council of State Governments, the Mid-West and West chapters. These groups came independent of each other, but left with similar impressions, and had invited me to come to their executive meetings to present at their Annual General Meetings on the topic of Economic Corridors. I recently returned from Portland Oregon where I presented the concept, and the practical applications of the how. I am leaving this weekend for Columbus Ohio to present at the Midwest meeting. My colleagues across the border, regardless of the party they belong, are very keen to hear more, and to see how they can work with us.

Our Minister of Transportation and Economic Corridors not only re-signed an MOU with the prairie provinces, we just added the Northwest Territories right before the Calgary Stampede. The significance of this is huge, it clearly demonstrates the willingness of the provinces and territories to work together, in building the Northwest part of our country, not only trade relationships but real pathways so that linier infrastructure can be built again in a timely manner. During the Calgary Stampede the Minister hosted an event where the Ambassador of the USA and our Premier spoke, both extolling the importance of the economic corridors that have been in use for years, well ones to come, and the vital importance Alberta not only plays in Canada, but most specifically, to the US itself. These were not hollow words from the USA Ambassador, but from the heart, and with a clear understanding of the need to ensure that "Fortress North America" comes to fruition. I was quite pleased when the ambassador came over to me to introduce himself, he gave me his challenge coin, shook my hand, and thanked me for the work on the Economic Corridor file.

The following day as it turned out, we were at the same table for breakfast and continued our conversation. I gave him one of my lapel pins, and explained the symbolism that I had chosen. Black and Gold in color for our energy, our provincial shield depicting the prairie, foothills, and mountains. The rams head, as it's our provincial mammal, and after all, they like us, sometimes butt heads to resolve our differences. Two crossed swords, one to protect our province, but just as important, one to protect our country and our allies. He was openly appreciative and began speaking on how many things Alberta has to offer, and that we need to be better at letting others know about it, don't be afraid to say it often. He then gave me his trade mission lapel pin and some more advice on items I should address and discuss on my upcoming conference in Oregon.

When folks ask me what is gong on with the Northern Corridor, or the one out to Hudson Bay, or the west coast they are always happy to hear the progress being made, but they are also surprised that there isn't anything about it in the media. I have no good explanation about that, other than they don't get it, or don't want to get it. So I thought I'd take advantage of our local papers, to share some of the more recent wins. I'll keep spreading the good word of what we have going on here in Alberta, how we want it work with others in the most collaborative way, how we not only want to lay the foundations for a strong future for ourselves, but for our trading partners. How our experiences, and our resources, are literally the solution to several problems and challenges. I have noted that if we don't tell our story ourselves, our own federal consulates will not, and our trading partners won't hear it. Perhaps that is what the US ambassador was eluding too as well.

When I spoke at the recent grade 12 graduations in Evansburg and Onoway, I wanted to impart some advice to the graduation classes. Nothing too fancy, lofty, or lengthy, something that they could remember. For good measure my staff this year printed some of the more sage items I've come up with over the years on the back of the certificates, and I truly hope that they may come in handy for them, as they have helped me over the years. The basic gist goes like this. Know who you are, where you came from, who those are that truly support you and want the best for you. Be proud of who you are, listen more than you talk, and be willing to come up with a better solution by working with others. Be yourself, because you can't fake authenticity, and people know it. Don't be afraid to speak up, and to do the right thing, it may not be easy, but it's the right thing to do. To keep in mind always, if it was easy, someone else would be doing it, and for less money, everyone gets bucked off, so suck it up buttercup, dust yourself off and get back at it. The most important one is that none of us have this thing called life all figured out yet, but many of us are more than willing to give you some of our time to help you along when you ask for it.

I wish you nothing but the best for the rest of your week, and I thank you for your feedback over the last few months in person, and through the emails. Please keep me apprised of what matters to you
