DEVON RCMP LOCATED MALE WANTED FOR SEXUAL OFFENCES

Submitted by Devon
RCMP

Parkland RCMP are pleased to advise that Darryl Labrecque has been arrested in Edmonton by members of the Alberta RCMP Central Alberta District Crime Reduction Unit.

"Our Central Alberta Crime Reduction Unit worked tirelessly in finding this individual, and the RCMP here in Parkland and Devon are grateful for their assistance. We would like to take the opportunity to thank members of public for their assistance on this," says Parkland's Staff Sergeant Brent Meyer.

Labrecque will be taken before a Justice of the Peace to determine future court appearances.

LEDUC RCMP WAS ON SCENE OF SERIOUS COLLISION

Submitted by Leduc RCMP

Leduc County, Alta.- On Nov. 18, 2025, at 6:29 a.m., Leduc RCMP received a report of a collision on Township Road 502 East of 9 th

Street near Nisku. Upon arrival, emergency responders located the driver and sole occupant of one of the vehicles, an Audi sedan, with serious injuries. This occupant died on scene of their injuries. The deceased has been identified as a 21-year-old male Redwater resident. The driver of the other vehicle, a Dodge truck, was taken to

JOKE of the week

Lauren was frustrated. She had complained dozens of times to her daughter about her newest gag of kissing the bathroom mirror immediately after applying lipstick, but it was all to no avail. Finally, one day after spending a half hour scrubbing the mirror, only to find another kiss mark an hour later, Lauren had enough. "Lizzy!" she hollered, "What?" came her daughter's reply through her bedroom door. I can't find the toilet brush that I've been using to clean the bathroom mirror. Do you have any idea where it is?" After hearing the gagging from behind the bedroom door, Lauren knew her days of cleaning kiss marks off of mirrors were over.

STRENGTHENING TRADE CORRIDORS WITH THE U.S.

Submitted by Government of Alberta

Parliamentary Secretary for Economic Corridor Development Shane Getson will travel to Lubbock, Texas to promote Alberta’s ongoing work to expand economic corridors.

MLA Getson will be attending the Ports-to-Plains Alliance 2025 Annual Conference to speak on the importance of enhancing economic corridors to grow barrier-free trade between Alberta and the U.S. He will also discuss opportunities to streamline trade corridors and improve north-south connectivity between Alberta and the U.S. via the Ports-to-Plains Trade Corridor. These discussions align with Alberta’s broader efforts to boost internal trade and the movement of goods from east to west, including expanded access to export markets through tide-water.

“Alberta is committed to strengthening partnership with the United States by advancing trade, resilient supply chains and shared economic growth. Through efforts like the Ports-to-Plains Alliance, we’re working with U.S. leaders to unlock new opportunities for job creators on both sides of the border.”

Shane Getson, parliamentary secretary for economic corridor development

The annual Ports-to-Plains conference focuses on enhancing economic security and trade opportunities across the region by sparking collaborative work to improve essential transportation infrastructure networks. The conference brings together policymakers, industry leaders and businesses from nine U.S.

states, including Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Colorado, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana, Nebraska and Wyoming.

Mission expenses will be posted on the travel and expense disclosure page.

STOPPING FAMILY VIOLENCE BEFORE IT STARTS

Submitted by Government of Alberta

Alberta's government is supporting 31 community-based projects to prevent family violence across the province.

Family violence has devastating impacts and Alberta's government is committed to investing in strategies to promote healthy relationships and support individuals who have experienced family violence. That's why Alberta's government is investing $4 million this year in 29 agencies offering 31 projects focused on addressing the root causes of family violence.

The funded initiatives are helping teach family violence prevention strategies and fostering healthy relationships through various approaches including educational training, sports programs, mentorship, support groups, and connections to other services and more. The funded agencies work with Indigenous Peoples and vulnerable groups and communities in Alberta, including men and boys, people with disabilities, 2SLGBTQQIA+ individuals, rural and remote regions and newcomers and refugees.

"Everyone deserves to feel safe in their own home and community. By giving families the support and skills they need, we can prevent violence before it starts and help build healthy relationships. I am proud to support initiatives and projects that bring hope, healing and lasting change. Together, we can break the cycle and create a future free from family violence in Alberta."

Searle Turton, Minister of Children and Family Services

The funding is being provided through two grant programs launched in January – $2 million through the Prevention Grant Program and $2 million through the invitational Indigenous-led Approaches to Family Violence Prevention Program.

This investment, supported by the National Action Plan to End Gender-Based Violence, builds on the recent release of Building on our Strengths, Alberta's 10-Year Strategy to End Gender-Based Violence, which outlines how the province will work to prevent gender-based violence, support those impacted and ensure those committing these crimes are held to account.

"Preventing family violence begins with building strong support and trusted connections. These grants move Alberta's 10-Year Strategy forward by helping people build trust, repair relationships and strengthen the bonds that keep communities strong. Every Albertan deserves a safe place, free from fear."

Tanya Fir, Minister of Arts, Culture and Status of Women

"Through the National Action Plan to End Gender-Based Violence, the federal government is proud to support Alberta's work to prevent family violence before it starts. By investing in community-led and Indigenous-led programmes, we are helping Albertans build healthy relationships, strengthen families, and break the cycle of violence. Together with our partners, we are working towards a future where every person, in Alberta and across Canada, can live free from violence, with dignity, safety, and hope."

Rechie Valdez, Minister of Women and Gender Equality and Secretary of State (Small Business and Tourism)

If you or someone you know is experiencing family violence, you are not alone. You can call or text the Family Violence Info Line 24/7 at 310-1818, go online to alberta.ca/safetychat or visit your local women's shelter for support. A full list of resources is available at alberta.ca/familyviolence.

Alberta's 10-year Strategy to End Gender-Based Violence builds on our province's strengths – across government and with community partners – to achieve our vision of a province where every Albertan lives in safety, free from gender-based violence.

ALBERTA INVESTS MILLIONS TO BOOST COMMUNITIES!

Submitted by Government of Alberta

With more than $11 million invested in community grants, Alberta's government is empowering non-profits, breathing new life into communities and connecting Albertans.

In every corner of Alberta, non-profits are at the heart of community life. They support families, preserve heritage, celebrate culture and create places where Albertans feel a sense of belonging. To date, Alberta's government has invested more than $11 million in more than 300 projects through the Community Initiatives Program and Community Facility Enhancement Program. This transformational funding helps non-profit organizations expand their reach, strengthen their impact and enrich the lives of Albertans.

"Every grant tells a story, and our government is proud to be a part of that. From communities preserving heritage and women gaining strength to children discovering their passions, these investments help create spaces and experiences where people feel safe, encouraged and proud to belong."

Tanya Fir, Minister of Arts, Culture and Status of Women

Each year, projects funded through community grants strengthen Alberta's cultural and social fabric, create jobs and revitalize gathering places. The festivals that celebrate traditions, programs that share unique stories and public spaces that spark curiosity all contribute to vibrant, connected communities.

"We are grateful to Alberta's government for its support through the Community Initiatives Program. For a volunteer-driven festival like ours, this support makes all the difference. It helps us share Ukrainian traditions, bring people together and celebrate culture with the broader community."

Jordan Biss, chair, Calgary Ukrainian Festival Foundation

"This project will provide an enriching space not only for our wolfdogs, but also for the community to connect with them in meaningful ways. The Government of Alberta's support through the Community Facility Enhancement Program helps us grow as a place of learning, conservation and inspiration for visitors from across Alberta and beyond."

Georgina De Caigny, executive director, Yamnuska Wolfdog Sanctuary

These grants also help expand initiatives that prevent gender-based violence, support women's economic participation, inspire youth and provide critical services for families.

Through Budget 2025, Alberta's government continues its strong support for non-profits with a $64-million investment in community grants. This commitment ensures organizations can keep delivering the programs, services and welcoming spaces that make Alberta the best place to live, work and raise a family.

BUILDING A MORE ACTIVE ALBERTA

Submitted by Government of Alberta

Alberta's government is investing $7 million to support sport and recreation infrastructure projects throughout the province.

Sport and recreation facilities promote active living and well-being in Alberta communities. From rinks and courts to multi-use community spaces, these facilities bring people together and promote active, healthy lifestyles for all ages. These investments help ensure that Albertans across the province have access to new and revitalized spaces to stay active and engaged.

"I am proud to support projects that help Albertans live healthier and more active lives. In many places, recreation centres serve as hubs for the community. With the Active Communities Initiative funding, more Albertans can enjoy sports and connect with others close to home."

Andrew Boitchenko, Minister of Tourism and Sport

The Active Communities Initiative is Alberta's first grant program solely dedicated to funding sport and recreation infrastructure. Each project reflects the unique needs of its community and together, they are projected to serve up to a million Albertans. The expansion and creation of these facilities will strengthen local economies as they stimulate over $60 million in estimated economic activity and create short-term and long-term employment opportunities across the province.

"Valley Ski Hill is thankful to receive this funding to make much-needed upgrades to our ski lodge and snowmaking equipment. It will ensure the safe and efficient operation of our facility for generations to come, enabling us to provide an affordable winter sport and recreation opportunity for families and youth in our rural communities."

Carol Macrae, secretary, Valley Ski Club Castor Association

The 2025 funding will go towards building, renewing and maintaining sport and recreation opportunities, from arena renovations in Lomond to pickleball courts in Okotoks and curling rinks in Rockyford. This grant program helps meet the growing demand for sport and recreation infrastructure in Alberta.

"This grant funding is an incredible step forward for the Lubicon community. The new indoor running track will provide a safe, year-round space for sports programs for youth, exercise opportunities for Elders and young moms with strollers, and training for track and field. It will also serve as a warm-up and fitness space supporting a wide range of community sports and wellness activities, strengthening health and connection across generations."

Chief Billy Joe Laboucan, Lubicon Lake Band #453

Active Communities Initiative funding is open to eligible community groups, non-profit organizations and societies, including First Nations and Metis Settlements, that wish to build or enhance active spaces to support sport and recreational opportunities for their communities. Applications for the 2026 Active Communities Initiative will open in the spring of 2026.

LESS RED TAPE, MORE ALBERTA NATURAL RESOURCES

Submitted by Government of Alberta

Alberta's government is supporting silica sand exploration and extraction on public land, reducing the province's reliance on imports.

Alberta's natural resources provide countless social, environmental and economic benefits, and government is looking to expand the Alberta advantage by creating new opportunities for investment in silica sand production. Silica sand is necessary for many oil and gas production operations, and Alberta currently relies on imports to meet its needs.

"Expanding opportunities for silica sand exploration and extraction will create good-paying jobs for Albertans and support our province's economic independence. These changes will allow companies to invest with confidence while still ensuring Albertans receive a fair return for the use of their public lands."

Todd Loewen, Minister of Forestry and Parks

"Silica sand is a critical ingredient in helping Alberta oil and gas companies in the Montney and the Duvernay formations. This oil, gas liquids and natural gas is critical to meeting demand in Canada and around the world. The more we can improve Alberta-based supply chains, the more secure this resource will be while creating jobs and opportunity."

Brian Jean, Minister of Energy and Minerals

"Reducing our reliance on imported silica sand is good for business and good for Alberta. Streamlining regulations while maintaining high environmental standards means more investment, more jobs and more long-term value staying right here in Alberta."

Rebecca Schulz, Minister of Environment and Protected Areas

New regulatory changes are making it easier for silica sand producers to conduct exploration and extraction by reducing red tape, shortening decision times and enhancing accessibility on public lands. These changes will reduce the Alberta's dependence on silica sand imports, create jobs and support economic growth.

"These changes will have significant impact on the ability to grow the industry in Alberta and provide security of supply for the oil and gas sector. Most of these operations are in rural Alberta, providing significant economic benefits and employment opportunities to the counties in which we operate. I want to extend my thanks to Minister Loewen, Minister Schulz, and Minister Jean, for putting Alberta first."

Keith Arsenault, CEO, Peaskie Minerals Inc.

As tariffs continue to affect businesses and workers on both sides of the border, the province is prioritizing the strength and resilience of Alberta's economy by investing in natural resource development and Alberta producers.

"As a business that has been working in Alberta for over 50 years, we are excited to see this Alberta government continuing to support Albertans and Alberta businesses. We are experiencing increasing demand for our products and this new program will open up significantly more opportunity for us to meet industry demands and create more jobs for Albertans."

Michael Leitch, General Manager, Sureway Construction Group of Companies

KEEPING HOMES BRIGHT AND WARM ALL WINTER LONG

Submitted by Government of Alberta

Alberta's Winter Rules for utilities are keeping the lights and heat on for Albertans during cold winter months.

From Oct. 15 until April 15, Alberta's Winter Rules for utilities are in effect, ensuring that residential electricity services cannot be fully disconnected by retailers, and starting Nov. 15, natural gas services cannot be fully disconnected either.

As winter weather hits and temperatures drop, these rules protect vulnerable Albertans from having critical utility services cut off. This ensures people across the province are able to access the reliable energy they need to provide for their families, when it's needed the most.

"No one should be forced to choose between keeping their homes warm or putting food on the table. During our harsh winters, utilities are not an option – they're vital to the survival of Albertans and we're taking action to make sure their heat and power stay on."

Nathan Neudorf, Minister of Affordability and Utilities

Regardless of the time of year, disconnection of utilities is prohibited if the forecast predicts sub-zero temperatures within 24 hours of a planned disconnection.

Beginning Nov. 1, customers with disconnected utilities will be contacted by the Utilities Consumer Advocate (UCA) to help them reconnect before winter. The UCA partners with the Alberta Utilities Commission, utility retailers and distributors and other government agencies – such as Alberta Works and AISH – to help with reconnection.

"Many of the families and youth we support face tough choices during the winter months. These rules help ensure safety while giving organizations like Trellis time to provide support, helping Albertans stay housed, connected and hopeful for the future."

Jeff Dyer, chief executive officer, Trellis Society

Albertans looking for help with their utility bills, making manageable payment arrangements, or who need support resolving a dispute with their provider, should contact the Utilities Consumers Advocate at 310-4822, email ucahelps@gov.ab.ca, or by visiting UCAhelps.alberta.ca.

FILING AN INDIAN BOARDING HOMES CLAIM IF YOU FILED A CLAIM IN ANOTHER SETTLEMENT

Submitted by Nation-Talk

If you filed a claim in another settlement related to federal education programs, you may still be eligible to apply for the Indian Boarding Homes Class Action Settlement. These are separate legal processes, and receiving compensation under one does not automatically disqualify you from applying for the Indian Boarding Homes Settlement.

The Indian Boarding Homes Program recognizes the unique experiences of First Nations, Métis and Inuit children who were placed in private homes between September 1, 1951 and June 30, 1992 for the purpose of attending school. Survivors of this program faced isolation, loss of culture and language, and risks of mistreatment while living away from their families and communities.

A Different Process, Focused on Survivors

Unlike past legal settlements, survivors applying to the Indian Boarding Homes Class Action are not required to testify or recount their story in order to receive compensation. The process is confidential and designed to acknowledge harms without forcing people to relive traumatic experiences.

Eligibility Requirements

You may qualify for the Indian Boarding Homes Settlement if you:

- Are First Nations, Métis or Inuit
- Were placed in a private home by the federal government to attend elementary or high school
- Lived in that home between September 1, 1951 and June 30, 1992

If you received compensation from the Residential Schools Settlement or any other settlement, you could still receive compensation from the Indian Boarding Homes Settlement, if you meet all the eligibility requirements.

Filing a Claim for Compensation

The claims process for the Indian Boarding Homes Class Action Settlement is now open, with a deadline of February 22, 2027. Survivors can submit claims for compensation through a process that is designed to be clear, confidential, and accessible.

Support is available through Community Engagement Teams, who host Information Sessions across Canada to answer questions, provide resources, and guide survivors through how to file a claim.

You can also find detailed information and claim forms online.

Support and Resources for Survivors

Survivors and families do not need to navigate this process alone. Resources for emotional, cultural, and practical support are available to help you take the next step if you choose

COMPANY SENTENCED FOR SERIOUS WORKPLACE INJURY

Submitted by Government of Alberta

A sand and gravel supplier has been penalized $150,000 related to a serious workplace injury incident.

McLeod Valley Sand and Gravel, as an employer, pleaded guilty on Aug. 25 in the Evansburg Court of Justice to one count under the Occupational Health and Safety (OHS) Act for failing to ensure the health and safety of a worker.

The Crown withdrew 14 other counts. The Crown withdrew all 17 counts against JRF Oil-field Services Ltd. related to the same incident.

The charges stem from an incident that occurred on a construction site near Entwistle on June 29, 2023. A worker became entangled in a roller that formed part of a conveyor's drive system and suffered serious injuries.

On Oct. 20, under a creative sentence, the court ordered

McLeod Valley Sand and Gravel to pay $150,000 to the Alberta Sand and Gravel Association to develop three interactive online safety training modules.

The OHS Act provides a creative sentence option in which funds that would otherwise be paid as fines are directed to an organization or project to improve or promote workplace health and safety.

Both the company and the Crown have up to 30 days to appeal the conviction or penalties.

Alberta's OHS laws set basic health and safety rules for workplaces across the province. They provide guidance for employers to help them ensure their workplaces are as healthy and safe as possible while providing rights and protections for workers. Charges under OHS laws may be laid when failing to follow the rules results in a fatality or serious injury.

ALBERTA RCMP CONCLUDE INVESTIGATION INTO SUDDEN DEATH DURING MMA FIGHT

Submitted by Alberta RCMP

On Nov. 23, 2024, Enoch RCMP received a report of the death of a 33-year-old fighter during a Mixed Martial Arts Event on Enoch Cree Nation. The investigation was assumed by the Alberta RCMP Major Crimes Unit who has been working collaboratively with the Edmonton Chief Medical Examiners Office to determine as cause of death and ascertain if there was any criminality.

The manner of death has been deemed as non-suspicious and RCMP have concluded their investigation.

The Alberta RCMP wish to express our condolences to the family and friends of the deceased.

HEALTH AGENCIES ACCEPTING TOYS IN PLACE OF PARKING TICKETS

Submitted by AHS

Alberta's health agencies are once again turning parking tickets into holiday cheer. Starting today, Parking Services across Alberta Health Services, Primary Care Alberta, Acute Care Alberta, Assisted Living Alberta (AHS) and Recovery Alberta will accept new, unwrapped toy donations as an alternative to paying recently issued parking tickets.

"This campaign is all about bringing joy to kids across Alberta," says Nick Ternovatsky, Director of Parking for AHS. "Every toy donated reflects the generosity in our communities and it's inspiring to see how much people care."

More than 1,150 toys were donated provincewide through the program last year.

Eligible tickets must have been issued between Nov. 7 and Dec. 19. Toys must:

- Be new and unwrapped.
- Be in their original packaging.
- Be suitable for ages newborn to 17.

• Have a minimum value of $25. Toys can be dropped off at any participating parking office during regular business hours until Dec. 19. All donated toys will be distributed to hospitals and local charities across Alberta to support children and families during the holiday season.

"Albertans are generous, especially when kids are involved," says Ternovatsky. "By working together across all health agencies, we're giving people a simple and joyful way to give back while helping brighten the season for young patients and families in our communities."

Suggested donations include books, art-and-craft kits, building sets, board games, dolls and action figures, sports balls, headphones, small electronics, journals, activity books, and gift cards for grocery stores and restaurants to support families.

WATER QUALITY ADVISORY LIFTED FOR BEACHES IN ALBERTA

Submitted by AHS

Effective immediately, Alberta Health Services (AHS) has lifted the water quality advisories that were issued in six water bodies in North Zone.

Recent weather has cooled lake and reservoir water temperatures to such an extent that water quality, including fecal bacteria levels, present a low health risk for usage of the lake for recreational purposes.

Effective immediately, AHS has lifted the water quality advisories for:

- Alberta Beach
- Calling Lake Provincial Park Beach
- Camper's Beach at Sir Winston Churchill Provincial Park

- McArthur Beach
 - MacFarlane Beach
 - Plamondon White Sands Beach
- Effective immediately, Alberta Health Services has lifted the cyanobacteria advisories for:

- Wizard Lake
- Half Moon
- Isle Lake
- Pigeon Lake
- Baptiste Lake
- Beaver Lake
- Bonnie Lake
- Buffalo Lake
- Calling Lake
- Fawcett Lake
- Floating Stone Lake
- Garner Lake
- Gregoire Lake
- Goose Lake
- Iosegun Lake
- Isle Lake

- Jenkins Lake
 - Kehiwin Lake
 - Lac La Biche Lake
 - Lac La Nonne
 - Lac Ste. Anne
 - Lawrence Lake
 - Lessard Lake
 - Lesser Slave Lake
 - Long Lake
 - Matchayaw (Devil's) Lake
 - Minnow Lake
 - Mons Lake
 - Moonshine Lake
 - Moose Lake
 - Nakamun Lake
 - North Buck Lake
 - Thunder Lake
 - Paddle River Dam Reservoir
 - Shiningbank Lake
 - Skeleton Lake
 - Stoney Lake
- As always, visitors and residents are reminded to never drink or cook with untreated water directly from any lake or reservoir at any time.

Alberta Health Services is the provincial health authority responsible for planning and delivering health supports and services for more than five million adults and children living in Alberta. Our mission is to provide a patient-focused, quality health system that is accessible and sustainable for all Albertans. Our current focus is on reducing emergency department wait-times, improving EMS response times, increasing access to surgeries, and improving patient flow.

SUDOKU

of the week

Here's How It Works: Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box.

ANSWER:
Last Weeks

You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!
