at controlled intersections.

The suspect then stole a third vehicle, also left idling in the driveway of a residence. With the assistance of Drayton Valley RCMP and Leduc CRU, CAD CRU successfully deployed a tire deflation device, and the suspect was taken into custody without further incident.

The suspect was determined to be impaired by drugs at the time of driving all three vehicles. The suspect was found to be in possession of stolen credit cards which he used at various locations.

Bradley Jonathan Pashe (31), a resident of Calgary, has been charged with total of 17 charges, including:

- Theft of motor vehicle (3 counts);
- Dangerous operation of a motor vehicle;
- Operation of motor vehicle while impaired by drug;
- Operation while prohibited;
- Fail to stop after accident; and
- Misuse of credit card (4 counts)

Following a Judicial Interim Release hearing, Pashe was remanded into custody.

As the colder weather approaches in Alberta, the Alberta RCMP are reminding the public that thieves will take advantage of any opportunities to steal vehicles left idling and unlocked. Police are asking the public to be aware of your surroundings, ensure vehicles are secured and report suspicious actively to your local police.

JOKE of the week

The teacher of the school geography class was lecturing on map reading.

After explaining about latitude, longitude, degrees and minutes the teacher asked:

"Suppose I asked you to meet me for lunch at 23 degrees, 4 minutes north latitude and 45 degrees, 15 minutes east longitude...?"

After a confused silence, little Johnny volunteered - "I guess you'd be eating alone!"

housing that lets them stay close to the community they know. This investment in Planeview Place will modernize the lodge, add independent living options, and give seniors here more ways to stay connected to friends, family and home as their needs change. We're proud to partner with Leduc Regional Housing Foundation to make that possible," said Nathan Neudorf, Minister of Assisted Living and Social Services.

"The redevelopment of Planeview Place represents more than an investment in buildings. It is an investment for the people who built our communities. Our seniors deserve access to safe, affordable, and welcoming housing, with the opportunity to remain connected to the community they call home. This project will not only modernize our existing lodge accommodation, which was originally built in 1963, but also expand housing options in the region. We are incredibly grateful to the Government of Alberta for recognizing the importance of this investment and partnering with Leduc Regional Housing Foundation to help build a stronger future for seniors housing in our region," said Stacey Houston, Executive Director of Leduc Regional Housing Foundation.

The redevelopment will renew Planeview Place for current and future residents while expanding opportunities for seniors to remain in their community as their housing needs change. At completion, the property is planned to offer 187 units: 121 lodge units and 66 independent living units. This includes 40 existing lodge units that will remain, 81 new lodge units replacing existing accommodation, and 66 new independent living units that will expand LRHF's housing inventory.

The project will be delivered in three phases designed to minimize disruption and allow residents to move into new accommodation on the property as construction progresses. The first phase will create 23 one-bedroom independent living units, initially used to accommodate lodge residents during construction. The second phase will build a new five-storey lodge with 81 lodge units and three independent living units. The final phase will add a second five-storey building with 40 onebedroom independent living units.

The redevelopment represents a significant step toward providing more housing choices and welcoming spaces where seniors can continue to feel at home in the Leduc Region.

About Leduc Regional Housing Foundation

MASKWACIS RCMP AND RURAL ORGANIZED CRIME TEAM SEIZE SIGNIFICANT QUANTITY OF DRUGS

Submitted by Maskwacis RCMP

The Alberta RCMP Rural Organized Crime Team and Maskwacis RCMP conclude three separate months long drug trafficking investigation that culminated into the seizure of the drugs valued at approximately $103,000.

On May 28, 2026, the Government of Alberta announced it was providing 8 million dollars in additional funds to law enforcement in Alberta to combat organized crime. The Alberta RCMP received 2 million in additional funding which has supported the creation of the Alberta Rural Organized Crime Team (ROCT) which is having an impact in Alberta communities every day.

The Alberta RCMP is determined to combat organized crime and violence in rural Alberta and First Nations communities. The Alberta ROCT has been working closely with the Maskwacis RCMP achieve this goal in and around Maskwacis, Alta.

In February of 2026, the Maskwacis RCMP started an investigation into the sale of drugs to community members. The ROCT assisted with the investigation that culminated in the execution of a search warrant for a residence in Ermineskin First Nation on Sept. 22, 2026.

As a result of the investigation, Police located and seized 70.5 grams of cocaine.

Shannah Crane (42) and Clinton Potts (44), both residents of Maskwacis, are each charged with:

- Three counts of Trafficking Cocaine; and
- One count of Possession of Cocaine.

Both accused have been arrested and released to appear in the Edmonton Court of Justice on Jan. 13, 2027.

BRINGING CERTAINTY TO EDUCATION PROPERTY TAXES

Submitted by Government of Alberta

Alberta is reducing, standardizing and freezing education property taxes, delivering tax relief for Albertans and providing greater certainty for municipalities.

Through Budget 2027, Alberta's government will introduce one fair and stable provincial education property tax (EPT) rate that will be locked in every three years, so every Albertan and municipality can better plan for the years ahead. The new standardized EPT rate will cut taxes paid by Albertan property owners, delivering estimated overall savings of $98.7 million in 2027-28.

Starting in 2027, municipalities will apply the new provincial education property tax rates to assessed property values, simplifying how the provincial portion of property taxes is calculated. To support and protect Albertans in communities where the new provincial rate may be higher than their current local rate, Alberta's government will be providing a one-time transition tax credit in 2027 to help families adjust and limit the impact on household finances.

"Albertans asked for a tax system they can count on, and Budget 2027 will deliver exactly that. We're reducing the education property tax rate, freezing the rate for three years, applying it fairly to residents and businesses in all municipalities, and giving greater certainty. By reducing and locking in provincial rates, we're making it easier for Alberta municipalities to plan and budget with confidence."

Danielle Smith, Premier

"We are giving Albertans and municipalities a clear rate they can plan around and helping put more money back in families' pockets. Locking in one rate for three years brings discipline and certainty to how this tax works, and it means stable, sustainable funding for classrooms across the province."

Jason Nixon, President of Treasury Board and Minister of Finance.

Municipalities will continue to collect the provincial EPT through their regular property tax bills to provide funding for Alberta's education system. More information on rates, detailed calculations and municipal guidance will be shared before municipalities adopt their 2027 tax bylaws.

"No matter where Albertans call home, they should be able to count on a fair and consistent approach to education property taxes. Applying the same provincial rates across municipalities will create a more consistent system and ensure Albertans are treated fairly, regardless of where they live."

Dan Williams, Minister of Municipal Affairs

"I welcome this change that simplifies the process for calculating the province's education property tax while also providing more transparency to Edmontonians."

Andrew Knack, mayor, City of Edmonton

"This is great news for Calgarians and all Albertans. Giving taxpayers certainty is critical, especially in a time of challenging inflation and rising costs. This means stability and predictability for Calgarians, and for City Hall. Knowing these numbers before we get into our budget debate provides clarity that will help us deliver for Calgary's priorities."

Jeromy Farkas, mayor, City of Calgary

Through Budget 2027, Alberta's government will continue to support families, build strong communities and work collaboratively with municipal partners to deliver results across the province.

ALBERTA LEADS IN WORKFORCE AND SURGICAL GROWTH

Submitted by Government of Alberta

New data shows Alberta is outpacing the rest of Canada in growing its front-line health care workforce and increasing surgical volumes.

The latest data from the Canadian Institute for Health Information (CIHI) shows Alberta is expanding its health care workforce faster than anywhere else in Canada, performing more surgeries per capita than the national average, and offering physician compensation above the national average to deliver faster, more reliable care for Albertans.

Since 2019, the province has increased the number of surgeries by 15 per cent, tied for the best in Canada, four per cent higher than national average. The province is also performing more surgeries per capita than the Canadian benchmark, with 606 procedures per 10,000 residents in 2025–26, compared with 584 nationally.

"Albertans deserve access to world-class health care, and these numbers show we're making real progress. We're building a stronger health care system and making Alberta a premier destination for health care professionals across Canada."

Adriana LaGrange, Minister of Hospital and Surgical Health Services

The CIHI data also show that Alberta added nearly 750 physicians last year, expanding the workforce at more than twice the national rate, and is not slowing down. The latest data from the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Alberta (CPSA) shows a record 14,661 physicians were registered across the province, as of Sept. 30, 2026. This represents an increase of 1,244 in registered physicians compared with the same period last year. Alberta also offers competitive physician compensation, with average payments to doctors about three per cent higher than the national average according to CIHI.

"Alberta is leading the country in physician growth, and our government is focused on building on that momentum by strengthening primary care, improving access to family doctors and ensuring more Albertans can get the care they need, closer to home."

Justin Wright, Minister of Primary and Preventative Health Services

According to CIHI, Alberta is also leading the country in nursing workforce growth. In 2024, Alberta led all provinces in nursing growth, adding nurses at almost 2.5 times the rate of British Columbia and more than triple the rate of Ontario. This means that Alberta is adding nurses faster than anywhere else to meet the needs of our rapidly growing population.

Alberta's government is delivering results: growing its health care workforce, expanding surgical capacity and strengthening access to care for Albertans. The data shows that Alberta is building a stronger, more responsive health care system focused on getting Albertans the care they need, when they need it.

MASKWACIS RCMP ARRESTS MALE ON CANADA WIDE WARRANT AND LAYS ATTEMPTED MURDER CHARGE

Submitted by Maskwacis RCMP

On Nov 3, 2026, at approximately 11 p.m., Maskwacis RCMP responded to a weapons complaint in Louis Bull First Nation within Maskwacis. Officers learned that an adult male was assaulted with a weapon and ran to another nearby residence to call 911. The victim was air lifted by STARS ambulance to a hospital where he has since been released. This was an isolated incident where the suspects knew the victim and the public was not at risk. RCMP learned through investigation that there were two suspects involved and were later arrested in a nearby residence.

Catlin Ermineskin (35), a resident of Maskwacis, has been charged with the following offences:

•Attempted murder
•Aggravated assault
•Armed robbery with a weapon
•Forcible confinement

Catlin was also on warrant status; a Canada wide warrant for failing to return on a statutory release.

In addition, Marcel Littlechid (40), a resident or Maskwacis, has been charged with the following offences:

•Attempted murder
•Aggravated assault
•Armed robbery with a weapon
•Forcible confinement
•Fail to comply with release order X 2

Both accused will be appearing in court in the near future.

ALBERTA LISTENS, ACTS ON STUDENT AID

Submitted by Government of Alberta

Alberta's government is easing affordability pressures by removing parental income from provincial student aid assessments for the 2026-27 academic year.

The change responds to concerns from students and parents about affordability and the effect the parental contribution policy may have on access to post-secondary education. New applications will be assessed without parental income in early November. Alberta Student Aid will also begin reassessing about 21,000 applications where parental income affected the student aid award. Most reassessments will require staff review.

"Being accountable means listening to people, looking at how a decision affects them, and being willing to change course. Students and families told us this approach was adding to the cost-of-living pressures they already face. We listened, and we are taking action to ease that pressure and better support students and their families."

Myles McDougall, Minister of Advanced Education

Students do not need to reapply or provide more documents. Alberta Student Aid will notify students who qualify for additional provincial loan funding and direct them to their Alberta Student Aid portal for details. The change applies only to parental income. All other Alberta Student Aid eligibility requirements remain unchanged. Removing parental income means a student's provincial aid calculation will no longer assume their parents can contribute a set amount toward education and living costs.

ALBERTA'S GOVERNMENT IS BUYING LOCAL

Submitted by Government of Alberta

A new procurement policy is putting local businesses first when spending taxpayer dollars to support jobs, create opportunities and keep more investment close to home.

The province is taking immediate and practical steps to give qualified Alberta and Canadian businesses a greater opportunity to compete for government contracts. With tariffs driving up costs and creating uncertainty, these changes will help keep investment, jobs and economic activity in Canada, while continuing to protect value for taxpayers and reliable service delivery.

Existing contracts will be reviewed before renewal or expiry to identify viable Albertan or Canadian alternatives where it makes sense.

"Alberta continues to be a leader on this front because our focus is on what we can control – creating opportunities for businesses to succeed. When government spends taxpayers' money, those businesses deserve a fair shot at earning that business. We're putting local businesses first, supporting Canadian suppliers and making sure more of our government spending helps create opportunities and jobs here at home."

Danielle Smith, Premier

Qualified Alberta businesses will be given priority consideration for purchases below New West Partnership Trade Agreement thresholds. Qualified Canadian businesses will be given priority consideration for purchases at or above those thresholds but below the lowest applicable international trade agreement thresholds. These measures will protect value for Albertans and be applied within Alberta's legal and trade obligations.

This approach provides greater flexibility, supports local and Canadian economic activity and ensures procurement remains fair, competitive and responsible.

Alberta continues to oppose tariffs and retaliatory measures that harm businesses, workers and the economy. Work will continue with provincial and federal partners to support workers impacted by tariffs and advocate for a path back to tariff-free trade. Local businesses and industry are encouraged to follow a similar process to keep investment in Canada.

Businesses affected by tariffs can access provincial resources and share their experiences through the government's new tariff-related resources for Alberta businesses page.

MAKING DRIVER'S LICENCE AND ID RENEWALS EASIER

Submitted by Government of Alberta

Albertans facing federal processing delays or missing historical records will have new options to renew their driver's licence or ID card.

Starting Nov. 19, Alberta's government is introducing three new exemptions for driver's licence renewals, followed by identification (ID) cards on Dec. 7. The changes will help existing licence and ID card holders, including those whose credentials expired within the past six months, who cannot obtain the documents required for renewal due to circumstances beyond their control.

"Albertans shouldn't have to go without a driver's licence or ID because of federal delays. These common-sense changes will help people facing genuine barriers get their driver's licence or ID card while protecting the security and integrity of the system."

Dale Nally, Minister of Service Alberta and Red Tape Reduction

The exemption streams are as follows:

- Federal processing delays: For eligible Albertans who cannot provide an acceptable document because they are waiting for Immigration, Refugees and Citizenship Canada or another responsible authority to issue or replace it. Applicants will need to provide evidence that they have applied for the required document.
- Long-established residents with historical document issues: For eligible Albertans who face significant difficulty obtaining older citizenship, birth or related records. Applicants will be assessed against established criteria and will provide supporting evidence where it can reasonably be obtained.
- Exceptional hardship: For rare circumstances not addressed by the other two streams, which could include the need for a licence to maintain employment, documents destroyed in a fire or flood, barriers associated with remote access or vulnerable individuals who cannot access historical records.

Albertans using an exemption can still renew their driver's licence or ID card without a Canadian citizenship marker. The citizenship marker will only be included if acceptable documentation verifying citizenship is provided. Eligible Albertans may be able to renew their driver's licence for up to five years, unless another requirement, such as a medical condition or licence class, limits the renewal period.
